Instructor: Pam Coffman
ADULT WORKSHOPS

THE ART OF TRANSFORMATION

What does it mean to create, to be creative? Create is a verb, it implies action. The act of creation is not the finished product – it is the process of exploration and transformation necessary to give the product concrete form – to bring it forth and give it life. The Art of Transformation workshops are dedicated to teaching you about your creativity and how to use it to transform all aspects of your life, work, and creative expression.

The Art of Transformation is a comprehensive three-part visual arts workshop series developed by Pam Coffman, art instructor, curator of education and award-winning professional visual artist. With years of experience teaching new perspectives in creativity, Pam's creative wisdom comes together in The Art of Transformation workshop series.

Process-oriented group instruction and one-on-one attention will encourage participants to develop a playful and intuitive approach to design while developing skills that translate into arenas beyond the workshop. This workshop series teaches new approaches to expanding the student's creative process that will transform all aspects of his/her life, work and artistic expression.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 28 – JUMP START YOUR JOURNEY: This workshop, for new and experienced artists, explores what it means to be creative. Through experimentation and SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 25 - CONNECTING THE DOTS: Take time for yourself and learn how to reconnect with your deeper feelings, insights, desires and images through collage making. In this workshop we will learn various elements of art making and self-expression by experimenting with color, layering, composition and content using magazines, old photos, and ephemera. We will use these collage techniques to explore and gain insight into our personal story, discover our creative muse and invite our inner child to come out and play. Whatever your collage experience level you will learn how to unleash the artist within and discover exciting new places in your personal creative journey.

SATURDAY, MARCH 31 - TIME TO SHRINE: Is your life so busy with things on the "to do list" that you have difficulty making time for what is meaningful in your life? In this workshop you get to explore what really matters to you and create a shrine to: honor someone special in your life, a favorite place, a remembered trip, a beloved pet, mark an important event in your life, or inspire creative action. Learn how easy it is to transform simple, everyday materials, photos and memorabilia into a shrine that is rich in personal meaning. We'll explore some of the traditions behind making shrines, and how you can incorporate your own creative goals and dreams into meaningful, personal works of art that nourish your creative spirit and delight your senses.

For All Three Workshops In The Art Of Transformation Series

SATURDAY, APRIL 21 - LEFT OVERS: If you registered for all three workshops in The Art of Transformation series, this is a special gift for you. During the workshops you were encouraged to save all of those little bits and pieces of materials and images that were left over from your art making. In this workshop we will transform those delightful left overs into creativity cards. These cards will serve as prompts when you get stuck or just need some inspiration. Use your cards as a reminder that creativity is there all the time; just get started, and then inspiration will come to you.

REGISTER BY APRIL 14, 2012

SOME MATERIALS WILL BE PROVIDED - BRING ALL OF YOUR LEFT OVERS FROM THE PREVIOUS WORKSHOPS
